Summary	Great job organizing your code! Your use of indentation makes your code very easy to read. Many people forget to add comments and to organize their css code so great job! This makes it very easy to navigate to the right location to fix your code in the future. Also, great job incorporating the mobile resizing! It may seem tedious but it's a very important practice. Great start to the Ready program! I included a few notes in both the html file for you to think more critically about. These comments are located directly in the Issues tab in Github. The main thing is that your project is incomplete. I'm not sure if you just did not have time to finish it or did not push all of your changes to Github. Your project looked great so far, wish I could have seen the rest! Great job again!
